"WHY THERE IS PRESSURE IN JAMB EXAMINATION"

- EKITI STATE COORDINATOR

- Says Oloyede has Strengthened The Capacity of State Coordinators, Enhanced Service Delivery

■ Ekiti State Coordinator, Mr. Abdulhakim Abdulhameed.

The pressure that usually trails the Unified Tertiary Matriculation Examination (UTME) conducted by the Joint Admissions and Matriculation Board (JAMB) may not be unconnected with the preference for university education and failure to cover the prescribed syllabi for the examination by candidates.

The Ekiti State Coordinator of the Board, Mr.

Abdulhakim Abdulhameed, shared this view in a telephone chat with JAMB Bulletin in Abuja on Friday.

He said the pressure by parents and guardians on the candidates to obtain high scores that would secure selected programmes in universities for the candidates is the genesis of the various attempts by candidates to engage in examination irregularities.

The Coordinator said "Some parents' insistence that their wards should study particular programmes and foisting such programmes on them without taking into cognizance the capacity or interest of their wards is contributing to their desperation to pass by all means in public examination like the UTME. From experience, many of these candidates are forced by their parents to pick programmes that satisfy the desires of the parents rather than the candidates. For instance, some parents would want their children to pick Medicine, Law or Engineering and nothing else."

He said, "The overwhelming preference for university education has also exerted much pressure on the Board which has to deal with a situation whereby other tiers of tertiary institutions are denied their fair share of candidates. It is so bad that when slots are

HIGHER EDUCATION AND EMERGING TRENDS

As rightly captured by Inside Higher Ed News of 7th May, 2020, the recent invasion of corona virus, otherwise called Covid-19, has changed the landscape of higher education and other sectors of our life.

The sudden shock to virtually all spheres of life particularly the closure of university campuses across the nation and the effects on basic education has necessitated virtual delivery.

The current reality is to evolve higher educational landscape that is interdependent with a design to create experience that prepares students for emerging realities with a view to making them become great critical thinkers, face challenges and proffer solutions as they emerge.

The landscape of higher education is changing more rapidly than ever-shifting demographics, the economy and the ever-expanding list of skills expected by employers.

All these coupled with rapid advances in technology present both challenges and opportunities in the workforce.

It is pertinent to note that in the emerging scenario, the right skills are needed to overcome all the seeming challenges people need to embrace. They also need to come to terms with the current reality and the imperatives to change the status quo, even as the traditional academic skills cannot be wished away.

There is need to vigorously innovate and plan for the future and the future is now. Future leaders would need to embrace the contemporary approach of solving issues through technology coupled with right competencies to navigate the right solutions.

The Joint Admissions and matriculation Board (JAMB), for instance, has been able to take advantage of technology to provide services to the public during the Covid-19 period and also used webinar and other related technologies to run its affairs.

The Webinar and zoom technology again readily comes to mind as all these have encouraged and promoted learning with its attendant benefits.

The virtual environment has the potential to make you a more effective authority, help in the developing critical leadership skills by utilising specialised knowledge and creating an efficient process with good outcomes.

JAMB DEMONSTRATES SOCIAL DISTANCING

As selected staff of the Joint Admissions and Matriculation Board (JAMB) resume in line with the circular from the Head of Service of the Federation (HOSF), which directed that only staff on GL.14 and above and those on essential services should resume at work within the three-day weekly schedule, the Management of the Board has been holding its meetings in line with extant guidelines relating to physical/social distancing as issued by relevant agencies to curb the spread of COVID 19. Part of these measures included holding of virtual meetings comprising Zonal Directors and State Coordinators as well as the mandatory wearing of face masks where physical attendance is possible.

Further-more, the Registrar of the Board, Prof. Is haq Oloyede, a stickler for rules and regulations, has also procured face masks for all staff of the Board and installed hand-washing facilities at strategic positions in all the Board's offices across the Federation.

Similarly, to ensure that candidates are adequately and promptly attended to during this challenging period, the Board has, in addition to what was provided during the lockdown, designed means of attending to candidates without violating the social distancing policy of the government.

In this connection, the Board has made adequate preparations to ensure that candidates desirous of services that require their physical presence are attended to. However, these candidates must first secure an online appointment through a process that will be released to the public in due course.

After securing this appointment, candidates must be at the various offices not earlier than the time allotted to them and certainly not after the appointed time. This arrangement is to ensure that the offices are not crowded and candidates are attended to at their appointed time.

EKITI STATE OFFICE DECONTAMINATES PREMISES

The Ekiti State Office of the Joint Admissions and Matriculation Board (JAMB) has carried out the total decontamination of its office premises in Ado-Ekiti.

The decontamination exercise was in line with the directives of the Management of the Board to protect its staff against the ravages of the COVID 19 pandemic especially on their resumption at work. It is to be noted that the directive for resumption came in the wake of government's decision to ease the six-week lockdown occasioned by the pandemic.

The decontamination exercise was carried out on Sunday, 3rd May, 2020, by the Environmental Health Officers Registration Council of Nigeria (EHORECON) led by its State Coordinator, Mr. Ajayi Ayokunle.

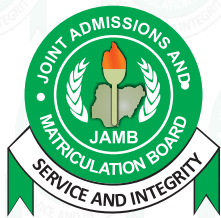

The Registrar of the Board, Prof. Is-haq Oloyede, had directed that all offices of the Board be decontaminated ahead of the gradual resumption of staff on GL.14 and above and those on essential services as directed by the Head of Service of the Federation (HOSF).

He said the decontamination was imperative as staff safety takes priority over other matters. He admonished staff to adhere strictly to guidelines on preventive measures issued by relevant government agencies. According to him, the Board had domesticated those provisions by making available face masks for all staff and mandating the placing of hand-washing equipment at the entrance points of all its offices.

The State Coordinator stated that the Ekiti State Office had complied with all these protocols with the aim of safeguarding the lives of its staff.

... "Why There Is Pressure In JAMB Examination" - Ekiti State Coordinator

available for admission in those other tiers of tertiary institutions and candidates, who for obvious reasons are unable to secure placement in the university, are advised to consider offers of admission in the Polytechnics or Colleges of Education, they turn such suggestions down."

According to the Coordinator, another factor is the excessive preference for certification over talent by employers of labour in the country. He said, "I personally feel a person's ability and productivity should not be determined by the certificate he/she possesses alone. As such, those values that a person brings to whatever he does should be the principal yardstick of competence. The earlier we realise that the various levels of tertiary institutions are designed to serve specific purposes, the better. This is because every tier has a functional role expected of it which doesn't make others inferior."

The highly-resourceful State Coordinator with eight years meritorious service under his belt as Ogun State JAMB Coordinator, who is currently the Ekiti State JAMB Coordinator, said the drop in the reading culture of students could also be responsible for many of the acts of examination misconduct perpetrated by candidates during examinations.

He explained that many of these candidates desire the good life which they know only education can offer them but are not prepared to study to achieve it rather they would want to cut corners.

He, therefore, advised candidates to prepare for the examinations. He said, "I believe when they prepare very well, desperation will be history. Parents, on the other hand, should guide their children to make the right decisions and ensure they are not pressured to study courses they do not have the capacity for. For instance, the Board had to issue a circular stopping third party transactions on behalf of candidates. Under the present dispensation, not even parents can transact business on behalf of their wards as the Board noticed that parents were making changes with respect to career choices for candidates without their knowledge or consent."

He called on all and sundry to address the challenges of apathy of candidates towards reading and the quest to cut corners, among others.

Narrating the innovations put in place by the Board to check all incidences of examination infractions, he said cheating does not pay as perpetrators will certainly be caught given the various innovations put in place by the Board. According to the State Coordinator, hard work is the easiest way to the top.

He added that the Board, under the administration of Prof. Is-haq Oloyede, had tenaciously ensured that adequate information is provided to the public on every step taken so that nobody is in the dark on several innovations that are introduced to enhance the operations of the Board.

He said advisories are consistently being issued while stakeholders' meetings are held as and when due to deliberate on how best to address feedbacks from the candidates and the general public.

Mr. Abdulhakim commended the uncommon leadership style and support the Registrar had provided to the Board particularly the State Coordinators in the realisation of the mandate of the Board.

He said, "State Coordinators will continue to give their best given the tremendous support accorded them by the Oloyede-led Management. His leadership qualities in the areas of accountability, transparency and doggedness have made all of us proud. The society also expects us all to replicate these qualities. We all know it's no longer business as usual as he keeps us all on our toes to deliver results."

On his work schedule in Ekiti State, the innovative State Coordinator said his work primarily is to bring the Board's services closer to the people of Ekiti, manage the Human Resources in the state and provide interventions where necessary.

He said, "I also cultivate good relationship with stakeholders as well as project the positive image of the Board in the state and carry out other duties assigned to me by the Registrar".

Continuing, "On assumption of duty in Ekiti State, in September last year, I visited stakeholders in the state which made it easy to relate with them and inform them of the Board's activities and innovations. Thus, a cordial relationship has been sustained with all concerned. As such, they are promptly informed on innovations as soon as they are introduced."

On the recommendation and accreditation of Computer-Based Centres, he said, "I believe the issue of standard is sacrosanct as it projects credibility and aids productivity. The accredited CBT centres in Ekiti State are closely monitored to ensure that they do the needful at all times. I don't wait until accreditation period before I visit these centres or invite them to the office to sensitize them periodically."

COVID-19 PANDEMIC: ADVISORY ON WEARING OF FACE MASKS

In line with the Nigeria Centre for Disease Control (NCDC), the Federal Capital Territory Authority (FCTA), has urged all residents to wear face masks every time they are in a public place to protect themselves and others from contracting the deadly virus.

FCTA warned that the face mask should be worn properly otherwise the aim of procuring it would be defeated.

Although the face mask is not a cure for the dreaded disease, it is a measure aimed at mitigating its spread. Some countries have recorded a level of success in containing the contagion, hence the advisory to residents.

In addition, lockdowns and stay-at-home Protocols, observance of other rules of personal hygiene have been adopted globally as measures to curb the spread of the pandemic.

As the global lockdown started easing, it is pertinent to continue to follow extant guidelines on how to remain safe and to also keep others safe too.

According to an experiment conducted in a laboratory in England, it was observed that wearing face masks while adhering to social distancing rules plays a vital role in minimising or containing the spread of the virus.

The Joint Admissions and Matriculation Board (JAMB) joins the FCTA in urging the general public to strictly adhere to all rules aimed at keeping us safe during the COVID-19 pandemic.
